Five Aces in Deck Cause Lad to Whip Out Gun and Fire

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—A fourteen-year-old boy was arrested in Brooklyn court Monday charged with shooting and wounding a 17-year-old companion during a poker game Monday.

William Termino was the prisoner and Salvatore Camacho was the victim of the alleged shooting. It happened, so the other four participants in the game told the police, in this way:

There was a big pot and heavy betting. William Termino called Salvatore and Salvatore laid down four aces and reached for the money.

"Wait a minute," William warned, "that makes five aces in the deck. If any man touches that money I'll shoot."

Salvatore touched the money and the gun went off.

Now Salvatore is in a hospital, where it is said he will recover and William was held under $1,000 bail for pleading next Monday.

GERMANY TO BUY MUCH COPPER HERE, JACKLING BELIEVES

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 21.—Colonel D. C. Jackling, vice president and managing director of the Utah Copper company, upon his arrival here from his east today, declared that he looked for a revival in the copper manufacturing industry within the next few months. The signing of a peace pact with Germany ought to help in that Germany has been purchasing only a little copper here, he said. He added that high freight rates will undoubtedly result in the construction of new reduction plants in the west to cut the cost of production. Colonel and Mrs. Jackling plan to leave tonight for San Francisco.

NAVAL HERO IMPOSTER INDICTED IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 21.—Patrick Kelly, arrested here last Wednesday charged with impersonating a naval lieutenant was indicted Monday by a federal grand jury.

At the time of his arrest Kelly told the police how he had fled from Ireland, his native country, when the British government brought pressure to bear upon him in trying to make him prosecute his own brother, who had been placed in British prison for Sinn Féin activities. He said he had gone to Australia and then to San Francisco, and that he had been in the navy uniform to hide his identity. He posed here as one of the men who made the trans-Atlantic flight on the NC-4, police said. His tale of adventure captured the crowd. Kelly, of Kansas City, and they were married here.

Police officials said the prisoner's true name is Verne Connolly and that he is a son of a Kansas City railroad brakeman.

PERUVIAN RIFLE ORDER HELD UP BY LEAGUE ACT

GENEVA, Dec. 21.—Herr Sahm, president of the city of Danzig council, has notified the league of nations that Peru has ordered 500,000 rifles at a Danzig armory factory. He asks the league if the filling of such an order would be in conflict with the terms of the Versailles treaty.

Herr Sahm says the carrying out of the order would give employment to many men who now are idle.

The question probably will be dealt with at the February meeting of the council of the league of nations and meanwhile Herr Sahm has been requested to hold up the order.

HARDING URGED TO RECOGNIZE CONSERVATIVE ORGANIZED LABOR BY NAMING LEE FOR CABINET

BY MARK SULLIVAN.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 21.—Some things that occurred last week have thrown some light on at least one cabinet position. Those cabinet appointments remain now, as they always have been, subjects in which accurate knowledge is in one place only and that place is Mr. Harding's mind. But some of Mr. Harding's advisers have reflected certain considerations brought up during the past week.

In connection with the department of labor three sets of considerations have been urged.

One is that a labor man should be appointed, but one with political experience and officially affiliated with the Republican party. The man commonly mentioned in this connection is Congressman John Nolan of California.

Another suggestion strongly pressed is that a great captain of industry whose contact with labor consists of having been an employer on a large scale should be appointed. One man occasionally mentioned in this connection is Charles M. Schwab.

From another angle of this position, Herbert Hoover is frequently suggested for the department of labor.

LEE MENTIONED.

The third position is that a recognized leader of union labor who is still identified with labor exclusively and who has the confidence of organized labor, should be given the post.

In this latter connection Senator Harding has been specifically urged to name W. G. Lee, head of the Order of Railway Trainmen and one of the three or four men acknowledged to be the ablest and the highest in standing among the leaders of organized labor. Lee began life as a brakeman on the Atchafalpa and the Union Pacific, and has never held any political office except for a brief period many years ago as deputy recorder of deeds in Ford county, Kansas.

SUPPORT ORGANIZED LABOR.

The argument that supports Lee is to the effect that it is the wisest policy to give recognition and support to organized labor.

For some years past the conservative leaders of organized labor, including Gompers, himself have been constantly under assault from radical labor men. It is believed to be the best policy to give to these conservative leaders the kind of recognition that will help them in their resistance against radical opposition in their own ranks.

President Wilson has followed this policy frankly. He went out of his way to make an address at the annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor at Buffalo three years ago. It was generally accepted that his presence on that occasion was partly due to his wish to give moral support to Mr. Gompers and to help this veteran head of the federation against any attempt, which was just then acute, to oust him from his position in favor of some one less conservative.

SELECTION IMPORTANT.

The selection of a secretary of labor is especially important now because the question of policy in that department of labor is new. It was created just at the close of Taft's administration, and the first head of it was appointed by President Wilson. This first appointment was given to William B. Wilson who still holds the post. Mr. Wilson was at that time a member of congress.

But the choice of Wilson as secretary of labor was not dictated so much by his political experience in congress as by his life time of experience as leader of organized labor.

Mr. Harding now has the second appointment to make, and if he makes it in the same spirit as the first it will tend to crystallize the policy of recognition of the conservative leaders of organized labor and give them aid in their resistance to radical insurgents in their own ranks.

All this has been laid before Senator Harding by advisers who are as remote as possible from formal identification with organized labor and whose motives are solely those of far-sighted policy and the public good.

BIG CARGO OF WHISKY SLIPPED INTO SEATTLE

SEATTLE, Dec. 21.—Prohibition enforcement officers today were attempting to locate a "Christmas cargo" of several hundred cases of whisky, believed to have been landed from a Canadian fishing schooner near here yesterday. The schooner was later captured by the coast guard cutter Scout and the crew detained.

Two members of the crew confessed Prohibition Director Donald A. McDonald announced today, to landing the whisky at Golden Gardens, ten miles from Seattle. Previously, they are said to have declared, uniformed men, posing as officers, overhauled the schooner and exacted $1000 and fifty cases of liquor as "hush money."

The shipment of liquor was the largest known to have been smuggled into Washington since the prohibition amendment became effective, Director McDonald said.

NOTICE

Not a boy or man would think of cutting an evergreen tree from the city parks or a private lot, yet they insist upon trespassing upon the Malan property in Taylor canyon, which is private property, and molesting and destroying the evergreens which grow there.

The property owners have a purpose in leaving all evergreen trees upon their land and ask the public to help them in this purpose. Those who insist upon cutting the trees and are apprehended will be prosecuted.
